Most recreational spaces or picnic areas offer limited seating options, let alone shelters and spaces that offer some privacy or have aesthetic appeal. They are often open, boxy and uninviting. To meet this need, I have designed and developed a community space with a variety of seating and shelter options including 'Social Park Pods'; modern, inviting, semi-private spaces.

This concept has been applied to Apex Park (opposite Mona Vale Beach), which is currently a large, grassed area with no shelters, seating or aesthetic appeal. Additionally, the aesthetic of the current facilities does not match the modern look and material choices of the new Surf Club development.

My design offers the Mona Vale community, a modern, aesthetic and functional space that welcomes groups and encourages social interaction.
