PRODUCT

Hook Line and Storage

My intention is to make an entryway/console table that is shaped to portray a “hook” like figure as it’s main body structure, in conjunction with drawers for storage.

The reason I have chosen an entryway table is that I believe it is a great piece that can be both functional as well as artistic. It also provides me with a lot of creative opportunities to not only apply my existing timber skills, but challenge me to explore new techniques and learn new skills throughout the construction process.

The table’s aesthetics will be a modern and sleek design while also drawing inspiration from natural coastal furniture already in my home to ensure the piece fits the space. I have decided to utilise these techniques to challenge the medium timber to convey the dramatic curve of the body structure.
