My Body of Work 'Bio morphism' examines the deep connection between the natural environment and humanity. In a world of constant change, rapid technological advancement and the ever-expanding urbanscape, I sought to remind audiences of the beauty and complexity of natural life. I push viewers to explore the intricate patterns and precise lines that flow throughout these ink drawings, mimicking the complex motifs and unique textures that exist in nature. I have always been intrigued by the diversification and specification of species, as they evolve.

Through this BOW I was able to extensively explore the adaptations that facilitate the survival of featured plants and animals. Although humans and animals exist in vastly different realities, they share the same fundamental purpose: Survive.
